ABOUT ME

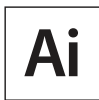

I've spent the last decade working in the advertising world as an Art Director and Technical Specialist. I'm a unique blend of both artist and programmer who's passionate about great design and front-end development.

My experience has been built from working on a wide variety of projects that range from brand development, website design and build to social listening analysis. I bring a unique skill set that meshes both strong design and technology. These skills, combined with an artist's eye, allows me to dream up the big idea, create the design, code the project and launch the final product.
